

What makes a Career Academy different?

Put simply, Career Academies improve schools by letting students focus on an area of study that interests them.

Students can explore their career options early, and gain important experience in their chosen fields.

Career Academies have helped schools throughout the country:

- Improve attendance rates
- Lower drop-out rates
- Increase graduation rates
- Increase the number of graduates who attend 2- and 4-year colleges and universities
- Build students' employability

Why a teaching academy?

After surveying student interest and the input of the School Advisory Council, PTSA and business partners, Baldwin Middle-Senior High School felt the community would benefit from growing its own teachers from an earlier age. As a result, the EX.C.I.T.E. Academy was established.

The EX.C.I.T.E. Academy starts students on a path in education by providing them with the skills, training, and instruction needed to facilitate a crossover into their own post-secondary education. The academy also supports students in becoming confident, proficient and dedicated to the mission of learning.
